

Community Energy Barriers Report

Preview only — no findings published

This is a proposed report structure, not evidence of completed delivery or collected resident data. NEEF is early stage; the community programme and impact reporting are developed concepts.

What proposed sessions would explore

Understanding of energy support routes; confusing forms; confidence in trusted sources; practical access needs; and what could make the next step easier.

Proposed evidence route

Listen at commissioned community sessions → record anonymised themes → follow up around six weeks later, where agreed → summarise barriers and suggested improvements → offer learning to commissioners and regional policymakers.

Planned report headings

Programme context and methods; attendance and reach; anonymised barriers themes; follow-up outcomes; limitations; and practical considerations for commissioners. Findings would be published only once collected and checked.

Evidence and privacy

Distinguish targets from actual outputs. Explain the sample and limitations, use aggregated information, and exclude identifying resident details. Publication and sharing arrangements would be agreed for each commissioned programme.

Proposed year-one targets

12 community sessions, 6 school sessions, approximately 200 residents and 180 young people. These are proposed targets, not delivered results or secured funding.

Discuss commissioning

hello@northeastenergyfutures.co.uk | www.northeastenergyfutures.co.uk/for-funders. NEEF aims to help resident experiences inform better support; no policy adoption or existing policymaker partnership is claimed.
